TRANSPORTATION FUNDING AT A CROSSROADS:
WHAT WILL IT TAKE TO DELIVER A 21ST CENTURY
TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM?

April 22, 2015 / 10:30 – 12:00pm*
Sacramento Council of Governments (SACOG) Boardroom
1415 L Street #300, Sacramento, CA
*networking lunch to follow

Forum Description: This forum brings together transportation professionals, planners, and policymakers from the public and private sector to discuss goals and strategies for short and long term funding and financing options for our shared transportation system. Participants will gain a better understanding of funding challenges at the local, state, and federal level; learn about viable short and long term funding solutions; and be part of a dialog on how various solutions compare in the context of broader environmental, societal, and economic goals.

AGENDA:

10:30am Welcome and Opening Comments
Mike McKeever – Executive Director, SACOG

10:35am Panel Introduction
Laura Podolsky – Policy Director, National Center for Sustainable Transportation

10:40am Aligning the Costs and Expectations of the Transportation System
Moderator: Steven Cliff - Assistant Director of Sustainability, California Department of Transportation

Speakers:
Debbie Niemeier - Professor, Civil & Environmental Engineering; Director, Sustainable Design Academy at UC Davis
Ron Milam - Principal-in-Charge of Technical Development, Fehr & Peers Transportation Consultants
Will Kempton – Executive Director, California Transportation Commission

11:20am Questions from Audience

11:55am Closing Comments

12 – 1pm Networking Lunch

This forum is being organized by the National Center for Sustainable Transportation (NCST) in partnership with the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans), SACOG, and the Institute of Transportation Studies at UC Davis. NCST would like to recognize and thank Caltrans for sponsoring this event.